

5 benefits to start studying now

Start your studies in October at RMIT University.
Get ahead with an early intake for selected courses.

#1

Get ahead of the pack

Starting in October or November will get you ahead of the pack with a full semester of online study before continuing your learning on-campus in 2021.

You'll finish your qualification for a pathway into a university degree or career sooner than students waiting to be next year* - all while gaining strong digital skills that will make future employers take notice. So why wait?

Finishing your studies earlier is subject to course sequencing, availability and academic progression.*

Student visas

The Australian Government is ready to start processing student visas for new students offshore. So when Australia's borders reopen, students who already have visas will be able to make arrangements to travel. Now is the perfect time to apply for your degree in Australia.

#3

Flexible online study

While the whole world is adapting to online study and work, RMIT has been delivering online courses for a while. Our online courses are run with small classes and lots of digital support. And our class timetables are set to work for international students learning in different time zones, so you won't have to study at odd hours of the day and night!

#4

Extra support

A student support team will help you get oriented and learn the ropes, and stay with you every step of the way. You'll have access to 24/7 personal teaching and writing support with Studiosity, job and career advice, and a technology team on hand to provide help and VPN assistance.

#5

Join a digital community

Don't worry about feeling out of the loop, just because you're not physically in Australia. Our virtual student clubs and digital social activities have been extremely popular in 2020 so there's lots for you to get involved in. A dedicated app called Vygo will connect you with peer-to-peer mentors so you can easily make friends with other students.
